Carlotta Ehrenzeller

Decolonize your mind

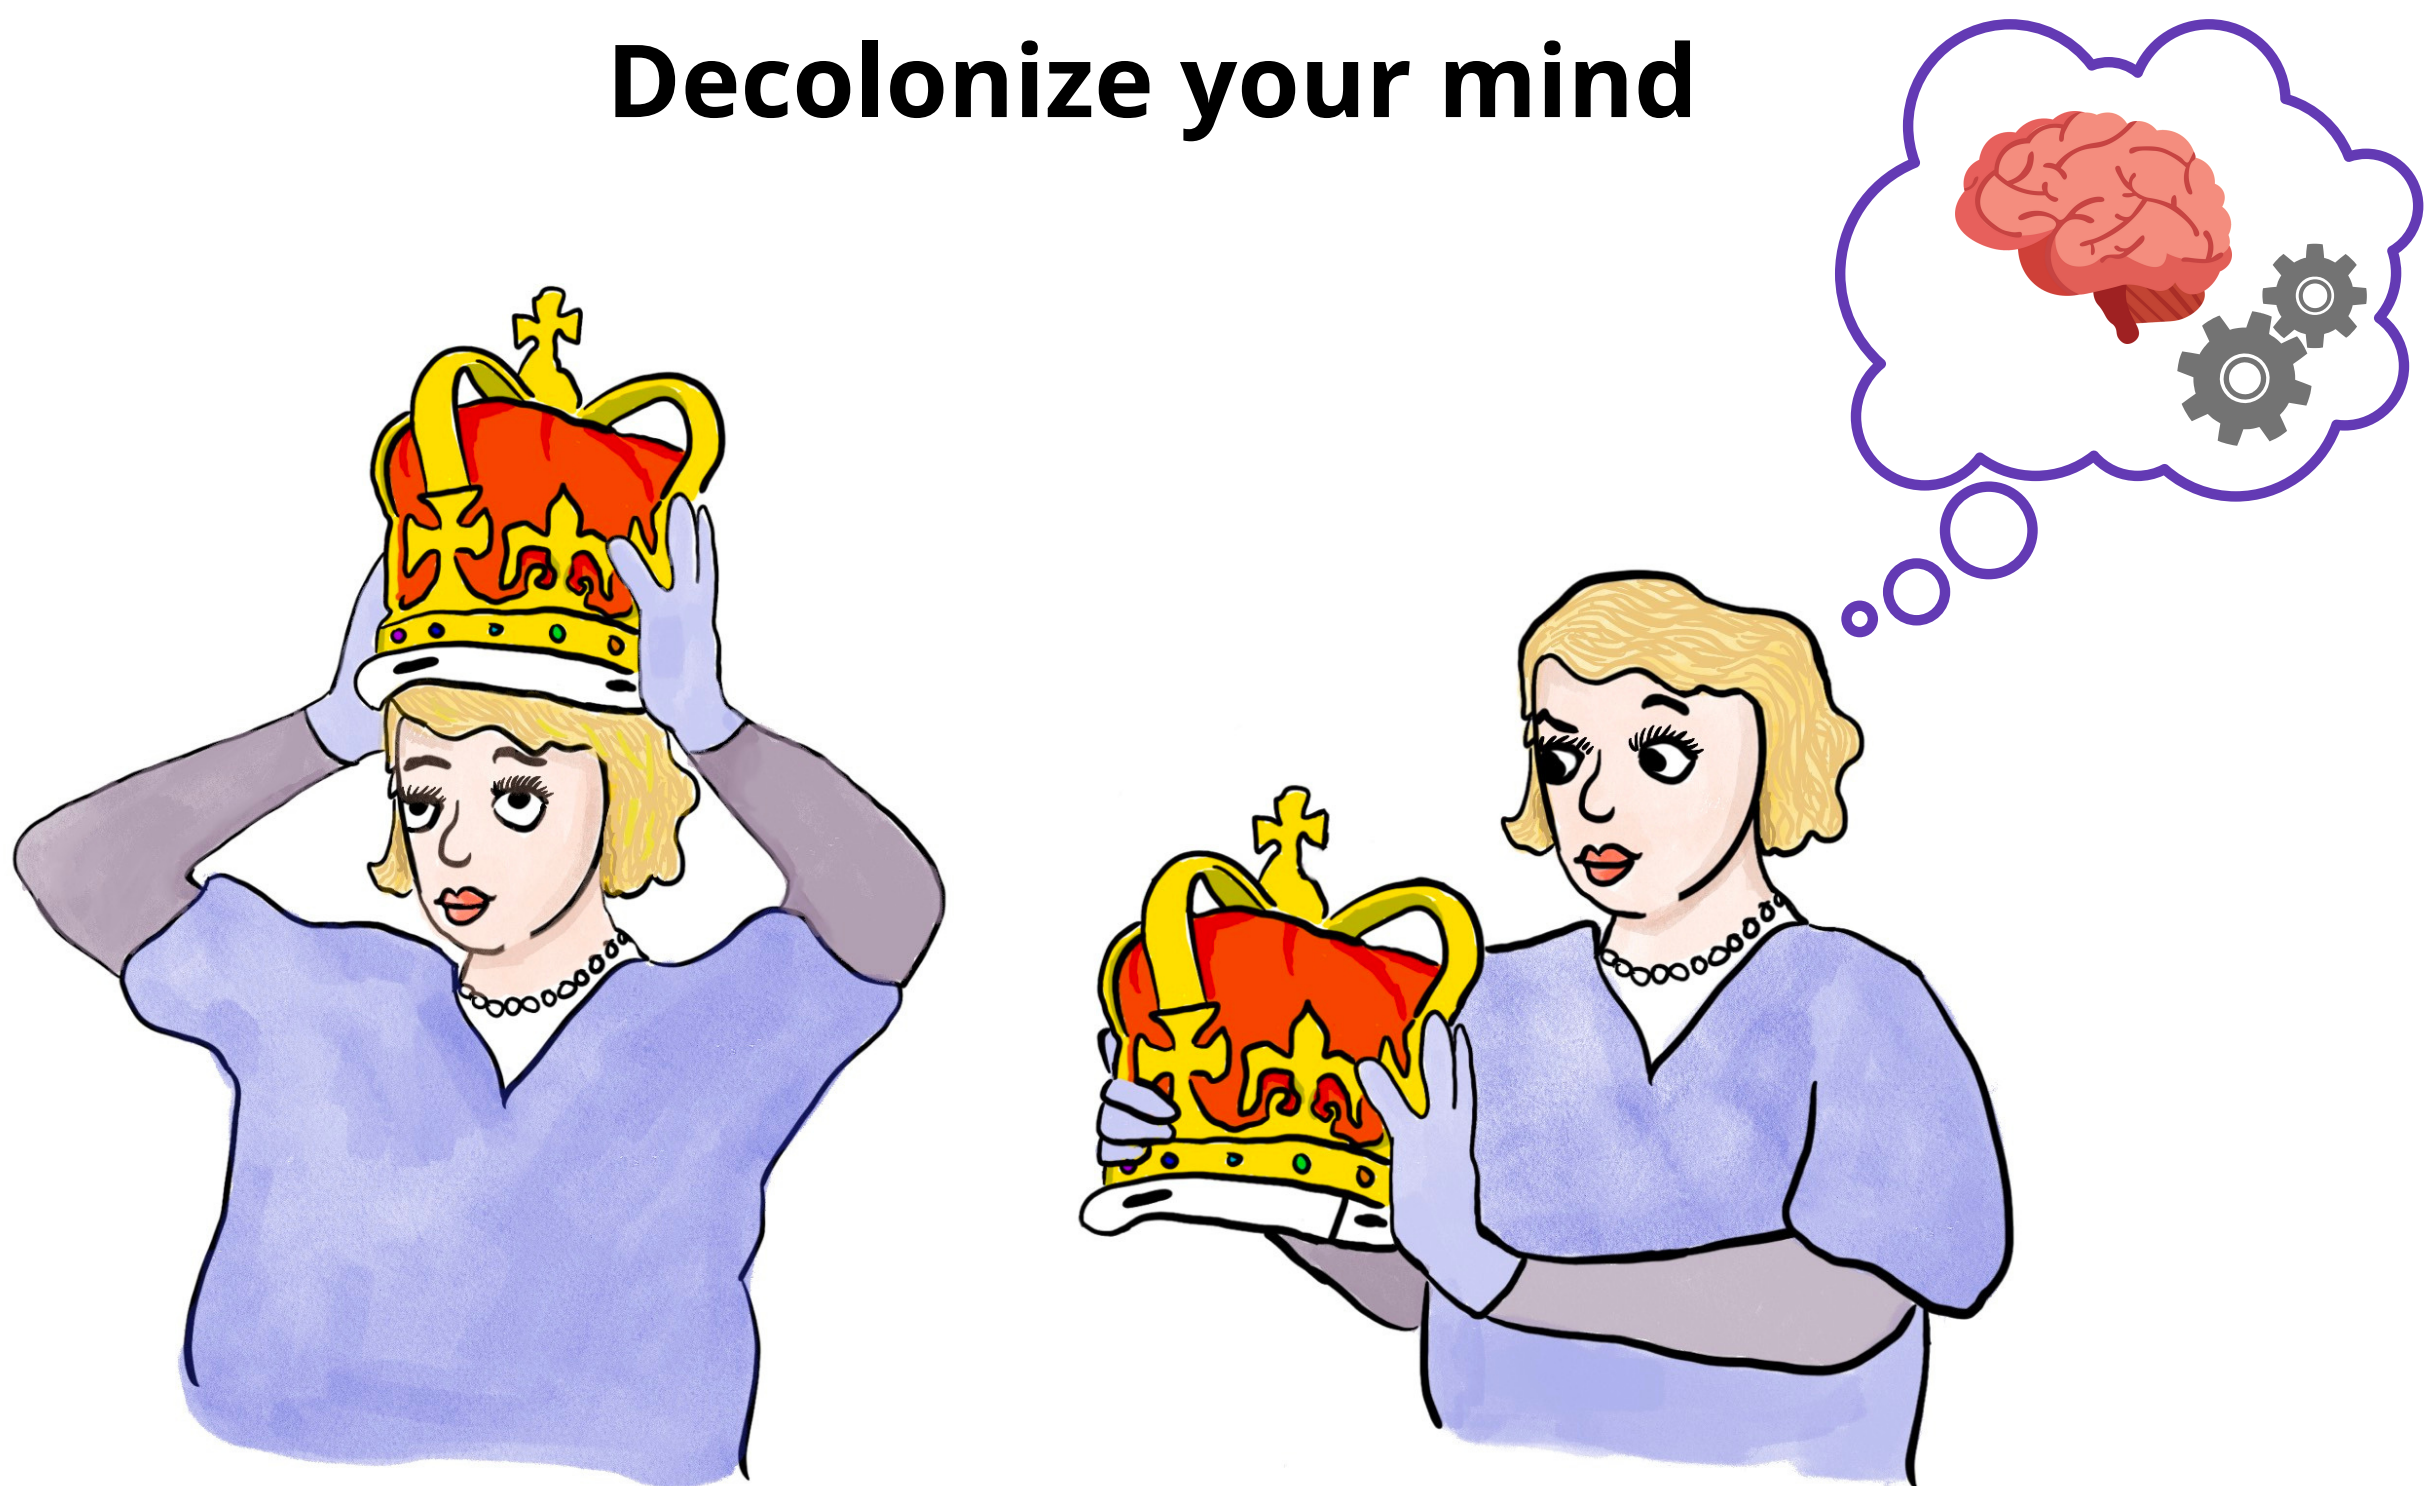

Illustration by S. Bieger

In this session, Carlotta will share her own journey with decoloniality as a PhD Candidate and young researcher from the University of Cambridge. Carlotta will discern what decoloniality has to do with each one of us, what the differences between decolonisation and decoloniality is and take a closer look at reasons as to why today's knowledge is one-dimensional. In a second part, Carlotta will discuss how we can move towards decolonial learning, what concrete actions towards decoloniality we can take within Higher Education and where each of us can start our own process towards decolonial thinking and being. Throughout the session, Carlotta will share her personal attempts towards decolonial researching and leave space for interactive time to reflect on your own journey to decolonise your mind.
